

Real Effective Exchange Rate

Methodological Changes

Within the context of the announcement dated January 31, 2025;

Country weights were recalculated for 2021-2023 period using bilateral trade and national income data of the countries in the basket and these weights were used in CPI and Domestic - PPI Based REER series in the periods after 2021.

Additionally, a change was made in the data source for the Iranian Rial, and the free market exchange rate was used. As a result, the real effective exchange rate series were updated back to 2011.

The January 2025 data, released on February 4, 2025, was included these updates.
