

CENTRAL BANK OF THE REPUBLIC OF TURKEY
PRESS RELEASE ON “2010 GLOBAL ECONOMIC SYMPOSIUM”

Central Bank of the Republic of Turkey and Kiel Institute, one of the leading economic research institutes of the Federal Republic of Germany, are jointly organizing the “2010 Global Economic Symposium” (GES) during September 27-29, 2010 in Istanbul Congress Centre (<http://www.global-economic-symposium.org/>).

The Symposium aims at analyzing in depth, economical, political and environmental problems the world is facing; creating a shared vision for future and drawing innovative strategies and solutions in order to realize the vision as such.

At GES, with the participation of world class policy makers, business executives, academicians and civil society organizations, global problems are not only defined but also tangible solution proposals to the existing problems are expected to be drawn by the participants during the discussions.
