

Methodological Changes

I.

Change dated August 2015

The “FX Indexed Loans” item, which is reported under the “Liabilities” heading of the “Foreign Exchange Assets and Liabilities of Non-Financial Companies” table, is decomposed into “short term” and “long term” based on the original maturity of the loans beginning from May 2015 publication. In this context, beginning from the data of December 2008, maturity breakdown of the FX Indexed Loans is included in the table.

II.

Change dated September 2015

The definition of the “Direct Investment Abroad”, which is reported under the “Assets” side of the table, has been changed in order to make the item compatible with the International Investment Position and the Balance of Payments methodology. Beginning from the June 2015 publication, the loans granted by the resident parent enterprise to the nonresident enterprise in which the resident enterprise owns 10 percent or more of the shares and the loans granted by the resident enterprise to its nonresident affiliates are included to the Direct Investment Abroad. In this context, beginning from the data of December 2009, Direct Investment Abroad figures are revised.

III.

Change dated August 2021

- a. The “Export Receivables” and “Import Payables” figures are revised beginning from December 2002 data as a result of the compilation of data using direct reporting method by the Turkish Statistical Institute (TURKSTAT).
- b. The data for “Deposits Held with Domestic Banks” and “Loans Granted by Domestic Banks” are started to be compiled based on their original amounts through using an additional data source. In this context, those figures are revised beginning from January 2015 data.

IV.

Change dated April 2022

For full compliance with the international sectoral classifications, deposits held by non-profit institutions serving households are excluded from the “Deposits Held with Domestic Banks” item while deposits held by non-financial public enterprises are included. In this context, “Deposit Held with Domestic Banks” data under the Assets title has been revised beginning from January 2018 data.

V.

Change dated March 2025

- a. For the deposits held in banks abroad data, the sectoral breakdown of non-financial corporations, which is disseminated by the Bank for International Settlements (BIS), has started to be used. In this context, the "Deposits Held in Banks Abroad" data under the heading of Assets has been updated beginning from the data of December 2002.
- b. Within the framework of the year-end studies carried out on the short-term and long-term credit debt stock received from abroad by private sector, the data on "External Loans" under the heading of Liabilities has been updated beginning from the data of December 2002.
- c. Data on foreign exchange assets and liabilities of domestic legal entities arising from derivative transactions with domestic financial sector and non-residents with one leg denominated in Turkish Lira and the other leg denominated in foreign currency have been included in the data set starting from the data of January 2014.
